MRS. RUBY EDWARDS BROWN,
Petitioner,

versus

ROSS BARNETT, JR., AND LOWELL B. GANT, Respondents.

PETITION FOR A WRIT OF CERTIORARI TO THE SUPREME COURT OF MISSISSIPPI

The petitioner, Mrs. Ruby Edwards Brown, respectfully prays that a writ of certiorari issue to review the decision of The Supreme Court of Mississippi in this proceeding on December 8, 1975, overruling petitioner's motion to reinstate.

OPINION BELOW

No written opinion was rendered by the Mississippi Supreme Court. The final decision in this case appears in Appendix L herein, overruling petitioner's motion to reinstate.

JURISDICTION

The judgment of the Supreme Court of Mississippi, as reflected in Appendix J, dismissing appeal, was entered on 13th day of October 1975. A timely petition for reinstatement was denied on December 8, 1975. See appendix L herein. This petition for certiorari was filed within ninety (90) days of that date. This Court's jurisdiction is invoked under 28 U.S.C. 1257(3)(1970).

CONSTITUTIONAL AND STATUTORY PROVISIONS INVOLVED

U.S. CONSTITUTION AMEND. VII

"In suits at common law, where the value in controversy shall exceed twenty dollars, the right of trial by jury shall be preserved and no fact tried by a jury shall be otherwise re-examined in any Court of the United States, than according to the rules of the common law."

U.S. CONSTITUTION AMEND. XIV

"All persons born or naturalized in the United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside. No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States, nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty or property, without due process of law; nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws."

11-51-5 MISSISSIPPI CODE 1972 ANNOTATED

"Time for appeals to the Supreme Court"

"Appeals to the Supreme Court shall be taken within ninety (90) days. Next after the rendition of the judgment or decree complained of"

QUESTIONS PRESENTED

Was Petitioner denied due process of law in that she was arbitrarily and capriciously refused review by the Circuit Court of the First Judicial District of Hinds County, Mississippi, of its arbitrary and capricious decision?

2.

Was Petitioner denied due process of law in that the Mississippi Supreme Court refused to review an arbitrary and capricious decision of the Circuit Court of the First Judicial District of Hinds County, Mississippi?

3.

If Petitioner was denied same did such denials constitute a denial of a determination as to whether petitioner had been denied the right to a trial by jury as guaranteed her under the Seventh (7th) Amendment of the United States Constitution, as well as other Federal and State Guarantees.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner filed her Declaration in the Circuit Court of the First Judicial District of Hinds County, Mississippi on the 10th day of February, 1972. In her Declaration against respondents, Ross Barnett, Jr. and Lowell B. Gant, the petitioner charged the respondents with malicious prosecution and abuse of process. (TR. 2-7)

The respondents filed an answer on the 3rd day of March, 1972, admitting to the allegations of paragraph one and two but denying the rest of the allegations in the Declaration. (TR. 8-9) The respondents also filed a motion to strike which was overruled.

This cause came on for trial on the 21st day of March, 1973, before the Circuit Court of the First Judicial District of Hinds County, Mississippi, the late Honorable M. M. McGowan, presiding, and a jury of twelve men and women duly qualified and empaneled. After the petitioner had rested her case the respondent made a motion for a directed verdict and the same was sustained by the trial court. Immediately thereafter, the petitioner then and there made a motion for a new trial. The trial court accepted petitioner's motion for a new trial and indicated that it would set same for hearing upon a future date which petitioner and respondent could agree upon. (TR. 165)

At the time the trial Court sustained respondents' motion for a directed verdict the Court gave a ruling from the bench, the same which appears in appendix A herein. That upon the 26th day of March, 1973, the trial Court entered a judgment in this cause, the same which appears in appendix B herein. On March 2 and April 4, 1973, respectively, after the trial and prior to a hearing upon petitioner's motion for a new trial, petitioner filed a motion and an amended motion to set aside the judgment of the trial Court and to conform same pursuant to the ruling rendered by the Court from the bench. Upon April 13, 1973, said motions were heard and overruled, as appear in appendix C. The motion for a new trial was yet pending in that it had not been disposed of when the March term of the trial Court ended on April 13, 1973, nor had it been abandoned. The general docket as appears in appendix D, reveals that upon April 19, 1973, petitioner filed an additional motion for a new trial, setting forth therein specific grounds in support of the original motion.

Upon May 11, 1973, as appears in appendix E, the trial Court heard and entered an order overruling petitioner's motions for a new trial, as without merit. No objections were raised as to the jurisdiction of the trial court to hear these motions.

On May 18, 1973, as appears in appendix D, notice of appeal and copy of notice of appeal and request to transcribe the court reporter's notes were timely filed; and upon May 21, notice of appeal was timely filed along with one copy of same. On October 13, 1975, petitioner's appeal was dismissed, as shown in appendix J. An appeal bond was actually filed on June 25, 1973, as appears in appendix F herein, although the Civil docket reflects that it was not entered until July 2, 1973, as shown in Appendix D.

The Circuit Clerk's office had three separate orders, of which only one was filed. There was one striking the motion for new trial and notice of appeal, deeming each a nullity, as shown in appendix G herein and purported to be the signature of M. M. McGowan, Circuit Judge; one striking same as shown in appendix H herein, and purported to be the signature of M. M. McGowan, Circuit Judge, and one striking same, as shown in appendix I herein, and purported to be the signature of M. M. McGowan with a subsequent order on the same date as shown in appendix H, herein, ordering all pending motions and appeals to be carried over for hearing and decision in vacation, and purported to be the signature of Leon F. Hendrick and Russell W. Moore, Circuit Judges, as shown in appendix H, herein. Appendix I has a notation written upon the bottom of said instrument which states "This order to be entered for Ross Barnett." Appendix H and G do not have such notation. All of these orders appear to have been executed on June 15, 1975. Although there were three separate original orders in the clerk's office, only the order (appendix H) was filed.

Notwithstanding that these orders are in the office of the Circuit Clerk, Petitioner's attorney found only a copy of the order marked Exhibit H in the record books at Circuit Court Book 53 at Page 49. An examination of the original of appendix H reflects that although the original, and copy on file, (appendix H) compare in content, that lines 8 and 9 on said original appear to have been corrected with the use of correction fluid.

Finally, the records reflect the following:

- a. Original motion for a new trial (R. 165) of the record which was made on the date of the trial.
- b. Original motion for a new trial accepted by the trial court and hearing upon to be had upon a date agreed to by counsel for all parties (R. 165).
- c. Court heard and overruled motion and amended motions to set aside judgment on April 13, 1973.
- d. That the written motion for a new trial filed April 18, 1973, did not render the original motion for a new trial a nullity, but only set out specific grounds in support of the original motion.
- e. That the overruling of the motion for a new trial on May 11, 1973 went to the motion for a new trial made at the trial.

It is apparent from the docket that when the appeal bond was filed on June 25, 1973, that the order dismissing the appeal had not been entered although the record reflects that it was entered on June 15, 1973. Note that appeal dismissal is entered in the space above "Appeal Bond Filed." (See appendix D)

Petitioner concludes the following:

That it is difficult from the examination of the record, to determine what the Circuit Court did, if anything, to dismiss this action.

2.

That if this cause was officially dismissed by the Circuit Court, that the Circuit Court had deemed that it had jurisdiction; and that the subsequent dismissal resulted from means initiated outside of court procedure, of which petitioner never received notice.¹

3.

That because the docket book failed to reveal all of these various orders, coupled with the fact that no official notice was given petitioner's counsel of the summary dismissal, petitioner was never in a position to resist this action.

4.

That Notice of Appeal was timely given within the ten day limitation provided for by the statute, after the motion for a new trial was overruled.

5.

That the Appeal Bond was timely filed on June 25, 1973 as reflected by copy of said Appeal Bond marked in appendix D herein, although the Civil Docket reflects that said Bond was filed on July 2, 1973, in contrast with what is reflected upon the face of the Appeal Bond.

Petitioner was not sent a copy of any of these documents purporting to be a dismissal of her action, and only first learned of same from the court reporter after petitioner's counsel made inquiry as to why there had been no completion of the transcription of her notes.

On about the 12th day of September 1975, petitioner filed a petition for Writ of Certiorari to the Circuit Court of the First Judicial District of Hinds County, Mississippi. Said petition included all of the matters and things as set forth hereinabove. Copies of said petition were timely provided the respondents' counsel.

There was no opposition to the petition at any time subsequent to the filing thereof, and prior to the decision thereupon by the Mississippi Supreme Court, granting writ of certiorari. The Mississippi Supreme Court granted Certiorari as shown in appendix K, and opposing counsel received notice thereof. No opposition by opposing counsel was filed prior to or at the time Certiorari was granted. Opposing counsel made opposition to the petition for Writ of Certiorari for the first time after the Mississippi Supreme Court had granted Certiorari.

After writ of certiorari had been granted by the Mississippi Court and the record had been sent up, petitioner was notified when her brief was due.

On the 13th day of October, 1975, while petitioner was preparing her Brief on the merits, respondents' Motions to Dismiss were sustained. Thereafter, petitioner timely filed a Motion to reinstate her cause and said Motion was overruled on December 8, 1975.

REASONS FOR GRANTING THE WRIT

The Court Below Improperly Determined That Motion For New Trial Was Not Timely Filed

At the conclusion of petitioner's case respondent moved the Court to dismiss her cause for lack of sufficient evidence to substantiate her claim. Thereupon, counsel for petitioner moved the Court for a new trial. (TR. 165)

By the Court:

— I feel compelled to grant the Motion. Plaintiffs can have their appeal.

By Mr. Winfield:

Your Honor, we'd like to make an oral motion for a new trial.

By the Court:

You have to set the date. I'll give you a date anytime you can agree on, of course.

On April 19, 1973, petitioner filed a written motion for a new trial. The written Motion for a new trial merely contained specific grounds in support of petitioner's original Motion for a new trial. The original Motion for a new trial was yet pending at the close of the Court term on April 13, 1973. The motion for a new trial was heard and overruled on May 11, 1973, as being without merit. No question was raised as to the jurisdiction of the trial Court to hear the motion and to rule on its merits. Notice of appeal and bond were timely filed thereafter.

The Judgment Was Not Final Until Motion For A New Trial Was Overruled

The motion for a new trial which was timely filed at the trial, was yet pending at the conclusion of the trial Court term on April 13, 1973. Therefore, the trial Court had jurisdiction and its judgment overruling same on May 11, 1973, was the final judgment of the trial Court. Therefore, the Notice of Appeal and bond were likewise timely. This was the same argument raised by petitioner on her Petition for Writ of Certiorari to the Mississippi Supreme Court and the writ was granted. The respondent only challenged the granting of the writ after it had been granted by the Supreme Court of Mississippi.

It is not necessary to make a Motion for a New Trial to obtain a review of judgment in the Mississippi Supreme Court. It was not made on grounds which would set aside or modify judgment and could not be otherwise considered by the Court. Judgment is not final until the trial Court disposes of Complainant's Motion for a New Trial if timely made. Petitioner submits that based upon the above premises her Motion for a New Trial was timely made. Moore v. Montgomery Ward & Co., 156 So. 875; Johnson v. Mississippi Power Co., 189 M. 196 So. 642.

SUMMARY AND CONCLUSION

This Court should issue a writ of certiorari and determine whether the denial of petitioner's appeal deprived her of due process of law, trial by jury, guaranteed by the Seventh Amendment to the United States Constitution, and the equal protection of the laws guaranteed by the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution.

For the above reasons, the petition for a writ of certiorari to the Supreme Court of Mississippi should be granted.

Respectfully submitted,

APPENDIX A

[164] affidavit against the plaintiff and the hearing was conducted that plaintiff turned around and filed one against her and it was terminated favorably to the girl.

So we submit that we're entitled to a directed verdict because they have wholly failed to make any showing of any malicious prosecution or any malice or any connection with the institution of this lunacy proceeding. (The Court then heard legal argument by the Plaintiff's attorneys and by defendants' attorneys.)

BY THE COURT:

This case was tried on the original declaration. At a former hearing the Court ordered a mistrial on account of insinuations or language used by one of the plaintiff's Counsel. The Court was expecting a new declaration when the retrial came about, if it should come about. The new declaration, which is really the old declaration as I understand it, charges actions done by Mr. Barnett in an effort to have the plaintiff arrested. That was the first on that suit.

There is a very serious question in my mind as to whether or not that renders the declaration duplicitous, which is error and reversible error to try a case upon a duplicitous — that is, a declaration stating two distinct [165] offenses. This happened as late as 1971, some two or three years after this controversy started.

It is undeniable that Mr. Barnett was guilty of overzeal or indiscretions, very great indiscretions. But whether it constituted an actionable offense is another question. I still hold and have to hold that the declaration is duplicitous and that the action of Mr.

Barnett, while extremely indiscreet, probably some of which was entirely unnecessary, I don't think it rises to the height of a suit whereby he could be assessed fifty thousand dollars in damages. I see no evidence of any malice or prosecution. Many things a more prudent person would not have done, but as to whether or not it constitutes an actionable wrong would be another question.

In connection with that fact, and the fact that the declaration is duplicitous or bordering thereon, I feel compelled to grant the motion. Plaintiffs can have their appeal.

BY MR. WINFIELD:

Your Honor, we'd like to make an oral motion for a new trial.

BY THE COURT:

You have to set the date. I'll give you a date any time you can agree on, of course.

Let the jury come in.

[166] BY MR. GORE:

If the Court please, one minute. That applies to Gant, too? That applies to both defendants?

BY THE COURT:

Oh, yes.

FINAL JUDGMENT

This cause came on for trial in open Court on March 21-22, 1973, and the plaintiff, having rested her case, the defendants, Ross R. Barnett, Jr., and Lowell B. Gant, moved the Court for an order excluding the evidence and directing a verdict in their favor; and the Court, having considered the pleadings, having heard the evidence of plaintiff in support of her declaration, having heard the argument and authorities of all parties, and being fully advised in the premises, finds that the motion of said defendants is well taken and should be and the same is hereby sustained.

The Court, therefore, hereby finds for the defendants, Ross R. Barnett, Jr., and Lowell B. Gant, and the cause of action filed and sought to be maintained
